Pianos! Pianos! Pianos!

"BEAT TO A FRAZZLE"
"THE HANDWRITING ON THE WALL"
—LISTEN—

For Six Years I have been telling the people around here that the Best Upright Pianos should be bought around $150, the modest priced pianos for less. Present results prove my system.

Slowly, gradually but surely my Piano Sales have gained each year with the stamp of reliability behind them.

N. B.—Do you notice some of my competitors' frantic appeals in their Ads? "Prices cut in half," "Whole Bundle of music free," "Music Lessons free," "Tuning free," right on top of cutting the price in half, etc. This knocks Lawson's "Frenzied Finance" into a cocked hat. What could the profit have been before THOMAS came into the field? Where do you fit, Mr. Customer, that paid $300 or $400 for your piano? How many Free Lessons, Free Music, Free Tuning, etc., etc., do you get if the man buying a piano for $150 gets all these things? Then you that paid $300 ought to have an automobile coming to you, for certainly the profit must have been enormous.

"Just for Fun Sale"

Wouldn't that caulk your "grandmother's old gray bonnet?"

Mr. Piano Buyer

YOU NEVER GET SOMETHING FOR NOTHING. If you buy a barrel of flour for eight dollars and the grocer gives you "free" a rolling pin and a bread board, you paid for them when you bought the flour—sure as fate.

"Beauty of mind is far better than beauty of form or feature. Grace of mind brings grace of body. The combination is one that cannot be beaten."

With time hanging heavy on his hands, Charles W. Morse, the New York banker serving 15 years in the federal prison, has mastered the art of using a typewriter and is now considering taking up the study of stenography. Morse is using the typewriter in collecting data about the health of the convicts, for the use of the prison physicians.

The University of Columbia now makes the claim to being the largest university in America in student attendance, the official register having just brought out the fact that there are now 7088 persons on the roll as students, 456 more than the final registration of last year. Even the medical college has more students despite the fact that the entrance requirements were raised since last year so that it now requires two years of regular college work for entrance.

It is estimated that $17,920,848 will be required to continue the construction of the Panama Canal during the fiscal year beginning July 1 next. The principal items are $19,211,398 for labor and $19,186,751 for supplies. An estimate of $1,000,000 is submitted for the re-location of the Panama railroad. The total estimates are slightly less than those submitted for the current fiscal year and are about $10,000,000 in excess of the appropriations for the current fiscal year. The appropriations on account of the canal up to date are $24,022,688. Of that amount $40,000,000 was paid for the French rights and $10,000,000 to Panama.

President Taft has finally approved plans for raising the grade of the battleship Maine from Havana harbor which called for the completion of the work on or before the 13th anniversary of the destruction of the war vessel, Feb. 15 next. The work is to be done according to plans made by army engineers and to be under direction of an engineer officer. President Taft believes that the paramount question in the raising of the Maine is the determining for all time of the cause of the explosion, and whether the source of destruction was from the outside or the inside of the vessel. For this reason he desires that the work shall remain in the hands of the army engineers and not be let out by contract. By direction of the President, Spain has been invited to send a representative to Havana to be present during the work of exposing and removing the wreck.

A BOY SCOUT PATROL

Popular National Movement Gets Firm Foothold in Rockland.—Boys Learn Practical Lessons.

The Boy Scout movement obtained a firm foothold in this city last week when Patrol No. 1 was organized under the direction of Scout Master Charles W. Bradlee, Jr., who is teacher of manual training in the public schools.

The boys enrolled in this initial patrol are Atwood Smith, Henry Tracey, Austin Staples, Fred Sweet, John Linnell, Harold Blackington, Leon Simmons and Harold Winchester. These names have been enrolled in the Boston headquarters. The patrol leaders has not yet been appointed. Announcement has been made that the Playground Association of America had joined in support of the Boy Scout movement as started in England by General Baden-Powell and fostered here by Ernest Thompson Seton. It is expected that the Playgrounds Association, an organization of all branches almost everywhere throughout the country, will appoint a paid secretary, who will give his whole time to the new work. There are already about 15,000 boys enrolled in the Boy Scouts of America in forty-six States, though the organization is only a few months old. Those who have been watching the movement here say that nothing has ever seemed to appeal so strongly to the boys of America.

General Baden-Powell has got the English public to understand that the pioneers of civilization in Central Africa, the ranchmen, cowboys and trappers of the American West, the bushmen and drovers of Australia, the explorers of the Arctic and the Asiatic regions, and the hunters and prospectors of South America are all "peace scouts"—men accustomed to live on their own resources, taking their lives in their own hands, and brave and loyal to their employers. The new boy scout is a tenderfoot. He is usually about twelve years old. In time he will become a second-class scout, the next higher grade, and finally a first-class scout. Before the tenderfoot gets a grade higher he must know the scout laws and signs and how to salute. He must know the composition of the national flag and how to fly it. Out of the reef, sheet bend, clove hitch, bowline, middlemen's, fishermen's and sheep-shank knots, he must know how to tie at least four.

Before being awarded the second-class scout's badge a tenderfoot must pass these tests:

1—Have at least one month's service as a tenderfoot.

2—Elementary first aid and bandaging.

3—Signalling, elementary knowledge of semaphore, or Morse alphabet.

4—Track half a mile in twenty-five minutes, or in a town, describe satisfactorily the contents of one store window out of four, observed for one minute each.

5—Go a mile in twelve minutes at "scout's pace."

6—Lay and light a fire, using not more than two matches.

7—Cook a quarter pound of meat and two potatoes without cooking utensils other than the regulation billy.

8—Have at least twenty-five cents in a savings bank.

9—Know the sixteen principal points of the compass.

It is still more difficult to become a graduate in this out-of-door school. A boy must do these things:

1—Swim fifty yards. (N. B.—This may be omitted where the doctor certifies that bathing is dangerous to the boy's health, in which case he must run a mile in eight minutes, or perform some equivalent selected by the scoutmaster.)

2—Must have at least fifty cents in the savings bank.

3—Signalling. Send and receive a message either in semaphore or Morse, sixteen letters a minute.

4—Go on foot, or row a boat, alone to a point seven miles away and return again; or, if conveyed by any vehicle or animal, go a distance of fifteen miles and back, and write a short report on it. It is preferable that he should take two days over it.

5—Describe or show the proper means or saving life in case of two of the following accidents (allotted by because it gives the best light of all lamps. The Rayo gives a white, soft, mellow, diffused light—easy on the eye because it cannot flicker. You can use your eyes as long as you wish under the Rayo light without strain.

The Rayo Lamp is low-priced, and even though you pay $5, $10 or $20 for other lamps, you may get more expensive decorations but you cannot get a better light than the low-priced Rayo gives. 6—Cook satisfactorily two out of the following dishes, as may be directed: Porridge, bacon, hunter's stew, or skin and cook a rabbit, or pluck and cook a bird. Also make a "dumpling" of half a pound of flour, or a "twist" baked on a thick stick.

7—Read a map correctly, and draw an intelligent rough sketch map. Point out a compass direction without the help of a compass.

8—Use an axe for felling or trimming light timber; or as an alternative, produce an article of carpentry or joinery or metal work, made by himself satisfactorily.

9—Judge distance, size, numbers and height within 25 per cent. error.

This first-class scout must also know a lot of other things. He must know how to find a life line, the position of the main arteries, how to stop bleeding from veins and arteries, how to improvise splints, and many other things which constitute "first aid to the injured." All the leading branches of the general scout movement in this country have now been consolidated, and it is confidently expected by the leaders that the organization will number 500,000 members within another year.

State Master Stetson Tells Why Executive Committee Wants Farmer for Senator.

The following communication from C. S. Stetson, master of the State Grange, will be read with much interest by members of the order and all interested in the U. S. Senatorial contest.

Recently I have noticed items in the newspapers criticizing the State Grange Executive Committee for adopting resolutions demanding the election of a farmer to the U. S. Senate. These articles which were doubtless written by a member of the Grange who has for years persistently tried to throw obstacles in the way of progressive constructive grange work, place the grange as was no doubt the intention in a false position.

The action of the Executive Committee was undoubtedly justified by the laws of the organization and by our declaration of purposes. After all these years of grange work along public lines such as denatured alcohol, interstate commerce, the Oleo law, rural free delivery of mails, parcels post, election of U. S. Senators by direct vote, direct primary, etc. We are publicly told that in the administration of public affairs, and especially in the election of representatives of our own class for a public office is none of the business of the grange. A remarkable condition of things truly!

Let the calamity howlers who are trying to hitch this organization with so short a rope take notice that they cannot beget the strong progressive membership in Maine with their sophistry. Let them understand that following the lead of other great progressive grange States, the grange in Maine proposes to be a potent factor in shaping public affairs for agricultural betterment in the Nation. There is no surer way to do this than by having men from our own class and occupation to represent us in office. Without such men in public office we may adopt resolutions and resolutions, but it will be difficult to arrive. With such men agriculture in the nation can claim its own and the grange will grow and gain prestige in spite of the men who are and always have been trying to try the wheels of grange progress.

There are 15,000 denatured alcohol distillers in Germany and practically none in the U. S. Why? Simply because the Standard Oil Co. has been able to say no! For a score of years we have been asking for a parcel post law, and the great express companies have foiled every attempt in this direction. As Brother Mortimer Whitehead so well says, "Isn't it about time the farmer learns to mind his own business?" The action of the Executive Committee was taken after giving the subject careful thought and consideration and with the expectation that it would be criticized and condemned by just such men as are responsible for the articles named. We have an abiding faith in the broad progressive spirit dominating our membership and feel assured that they are ready to advance our interests in the manner indicated in this resolution.

"LOADING" ITS CIRCUITS

New England Telephone Co. Improving 1700 Miles of Its Trunk Line in Maine.

The New England Telephone and Telegraph Company is re-equipping about 1,700 miles of its trunk lines in Maine, a large crew of men are now engaged in the work. Technically speaking the circuits are being "loaded." By this arrangement the lines are made to do better service. The loading of lines means the placing of a special coil every eighth mile. By doing so the circuit is "built" up, giving a perfectly clear line no matter what the distance may be.

By the change it is necessary to use other than the present glass insulators and in their place a special insulator, made for long distance lines, is used. It will require about 30,000 new insulators to complete the work.

This method of loading the lines or circuits is being done by the other lines having connection with the New England Company, and is another step in the line of progress inaugurated by the company some time ago. When the lines are completed it will be possible to talk with San Francisco with as much ease as one can talk with much nearer points.

The trunk lines are now having the attention of the workmen are those between Portland and Rockland, Portland and Waterville, and two lines between Portland and Bangor.

It is expected that the work will be completed in about one month.

They've named a cruiser Dixie. An' fellers, I'll be bound! You're goin' to see some fightin' when the Dixie swings around! Ef any o' them Spanish ships shall strike her, east or west, Just let the ban' play "Dixie," an' the boys'll do the rest!

I want to see that Dixie—I want ter take my stan' On the deck of her and holler: "Three cheers fer Dixie lan!" She means we're all united—the war hurts healed away, An' "Way Down South in Dixie" is national today!

CIRCULATION AFFIDAVIT
Rockland, October 18, 1910.
Personally appeared Neil S. Perry, who on oath declares: That he is president in the office of the Rockland Publishing Co., and that of the issue of The Courier-Gazette of October 15, 1910, there was printed a total of 4,338 copies before me:
F. ERNEST HOLMAN,
Notary Public.

We perceive that our several suggestions in connection with the prospective rebuilding of Sea street are tending to arouse interest and we are glad that this is so. There is no difference of opinion as to the need of doing something to the street—everybody is of one mind there. What we hope may be not lost sight of in the final getting down to real business, is the suggestion to apply some of the elements of the ornamental to the work of rebuilding. As we have previously pointed out, all progressive cities in these days are paying increased attention to making themselves attractive. Rockland may have lagged somewhat in the tide of advance, but there is yet time and opportunity and we ought to see to it that our city is not left longer in the rear. We have already done some things—our streets generally are receiving attention and the wooden sidewalk has disappeared forever, while the Public Library is a notable and triumphant achievement. It will be a bold stroke, this changing of Sea street from a wretched and painful eyesore to something that shall administer to the enjoyment of citizens and visitors alike—but what a glorious thing to do! Let us seriously consider upon it. Let us bring hither some man gifted in the subject of municipal adornment and get him to tell us how it can be done.

"Our Democratic friends are saying that if the Democratic party comes in to power it would reduce the expense of this government $300,000,000," says the President. "Do they mean that the Democrats would abolish the pension list? Do they mean that they would give up the navy and disband the army? Do they mean that they would abandon Porto Rico and the Philippines? Let us have a little specification. What are these statements worth unless the gentlemen who make them give us the details of the expenditures that they criticize and expect to avoid if they are let into power and become themselves the national government?"

September was the first month of the present fiscal year which showed a balance for Uncle Sam on the right side of the account. In July and August the government expended more than it received. In September there was a surplus of $1,460,000 over all disbursements, but if the payments for the Panama Canal were omitted the excess of receipts would be $3,456,000. For the first quarter of the fiscal year the treasury deficit is, in round figures, $15,000,000. This shows that that economy program which the President emphasized at the recent meeting of the cabinet in Washington, can give good reasons for being here.

The London correspondent of the New York Evening Post, writing under date of Sept. 17, says: "The Liberal press of England is jubilant of the victory of the Democrats in Maine, and hopes that it means the downfall of protection in America." The downfall of protection in America would be a great boon to British manufacturers and British free traders. Free access to the greatest of markets would be worth millions of dollars to European producers.

The best plan is to keep advertising all the time. If the proprietor of the store cannot give his advertising the time it should have he had better make it the duty of one of his assistants to attend to this branch of work. Let the assistant have a certain time each day for the work, and have it understood that this work is to be done as carefully and as regularly as any other duty.

We are interested in the proposal of the Boston & Maine Railroad to spend $10,000,000 in improving its road. We hope it will among other things be able through improved tracks and rolling stock to cut down the running time between Rockland and Boston and make its schedules promptly.

What a glorious October! If any part of the world is more beautiful than Maine at this time, or is enjoying itself more—but that would be impossible.

Temple Nearing Completion

Masonic Building Will be Second Only to Portland's In This State.—Amount of Space Amazes Visitors.

Speedy progress is now being made upon Masonic Temple, which will lack very little of completion when the new year is ushered in. The store which has been leased to the Masons, the big and 10 cent concern, will be ready for occupancy by the first of November, providing there are no delays meantime which will prevent the removal of the store from the front side. Within a few days the Woolworth store and that occupied by H. H. Crie & Co. have been equipped with plate glass fronts, which add materially to the appearance of the structure.

In the early stages of transforming Farwell opera house block into a Masonic Temple there has been no lack of criticism upon the part of the public, which has probably never given the matter more than a superficial examination, even if it has taken that trouble. The Masons have been criticized because they did not purchase a lot and erect a new building elsewhere; the architect has been criticized for the style of the building, and the contractor has been criticized because the work has not been pushed forward fast enough to suit the impatient spirits. Today, however, the work has progressed sufficiently to show that the ideas of the building committee are justified. Rockland will have a Masonic Temple second to none but Portland's in this state, and results will have been achieved for the expenditure of $200,000 that could not be duplicated for $75,000 if the Masons had undertaken to buy another lot and erect a brand new building.

In company with Hon. Arthur S. Little, president of the Masonic Temple Association, The Courier-Gazette reporter yesterday reviewed the new Temple from basement to attic. He was impressed, as all others are sure to be, with the vastness of the future Masonic quarters and the solidity of construction.

In this latter connection it is fitting to make a brief mention of the brick pillars which extend from the ground to the roof of the front of the building. To the novice the construction of these columns has looked like a sacrifice of good space, but it is pointed out by the architect and building committee that if small metal columns were used in a building of that style would have the appearance of being set upon stilts.

The reconstruction of the block has been from the ground up, so far as the front of the structure is concerned. In place of the old and primly severe front has risen one of brick and terra-cotta, bearing the name of the structure and the insignia of the great fraternal order which it represents. This front wall, when completed, will be six feet higher near the corners and about 12 feet higher in the center, where the large dormer window is to be built. The new front of the temple is a large structure, fronting 70 feet on Main street and extending back from the street a distance of 90 feet. The Woolworth store on the ground floor is 40x50 feet and has a divided basement of practically the same size, reached by separate stairways and shelved off to correspond with the various departments. The store has a steel ceiling, and the expansive hardwood floor is now receiving the finishing touches. This store will be one of the finest in this part of the state. The basement will be equipped with toilets and lavatories.

The southern store is occupied by H. H. Crie & Co., the well known hardware store, which has been moved to its new quarters through thick and thin, during all the commotion and activity that have surrounded it during the summer. This store will have a plate glass front connecting with the Woolworth store, and a portion of the basement beneath this store is occupied by the steam heating apparatus, a sectional boiler which can be taken apart at will, without exciting the fire. At the rear of the Crie store has been erected a brick structure, which serves the double purpose of a freight elevator and fire escape. It has metal doors.

The main entrance to the Masonic Temple and offices on the second floor is located at the northeastern corner, facing Main street. It will be protected by a canopy of metal and glass, depending from chains which are connected with the main structure. The entrance will be a fine one, with brilliant electric illuminations, although these will not be necessary much of the time as the Woolworth store is to be used in front by flaming arc-lights of the style used in front of Rockland Theatre.

Fronting Main street on the second floor will be a suite of offices to be

TENANT'S HARBOR DAYS

Of Getting Back to the Old Place and Being Boys Once More.

LXXIV.

After spending the longest time at the Harbor that I have spent for twenty-five years past, I am again back in the city and ready to take a retrospective view of my sojourn at the dear old place. I find that I accumulated some health, some flesh, some tan, and some good stories—of which more anon. I went to clam-bakes, lobster feasts, parties and parties. I sawed wood, dug clams and went fishing. I went motor-boating, sailing and rowing—in fact got just as near to nature as I could, and enjoyed myself immensely. In order to have a good time when you want some old clothes and a couple of flannel shirts, and get right out in God's pure air and sunlight. Down in the good old Pine Tree State is just where you can find that combination.

I met a larger number of the girls and boys of my school-days than I have seen before for years. I also met quite a number of my former pupils, though the most of them had made themselves known. The old saying runs, "He who would have friends must first make himself friendly." I tried to do that and succeeded very well indeed. I was right royally entertained, not only at the Harbor, but at Fort Fairfield and Camden where it was my good fortune to have school-mates reside. I was glad to see the spirit displayed by the former residents of the place, to get together and talk over the things we used to do. What is the use to go there with any other spirit? The boys in the good old days were on equal footing. We wore a blouse and pair of trousers in the summer, and went barefooted, and had "stun bruises" on our feet. Suppose we do have more fashionable clothes now, we are not half so comfortable as we were in our school-days. Suppose some of us do possess titles, when you get down there, forget them. As our occupied by the Rockland-Rockport Lime Co. The offices will be ready by the first of January, and will be splendidly adapted for the corporation's use. All open into a private corridor. The main office in the northeastern corner contains a vault, which opens toward the windows.

Nearly one-half of the second floor on the western side of the building is taken by a public banquet and drill hall, the dimensions of which are 45x55. At the southern end of this hall is a stage 12 feet in depth by 18 feet in width. The hall has seating accommodations for upward of 400 persons. An splendidly adapted for dances, public lectures and other forms of entertainment when not in use by the Masons. Opening from it on the south is the kitchen, a dining room and storeroom. Opening from the banquet hall on the east is a supper room and parlor, 17x33 feet, suitable for ordinary occasions. This supper room opens at one end into a lobby and men's coat room and on the other to coat and toilet rooms.

The main switchboard is also located on the second floor. All of the wires come into the building through a protected cable and are distributed to the several floors through iron pipes. An insurance man who recently visited the building stated that it was the best wiring job in the state. The telephone wires enter the building in a lead cable and are distributed to the several floors in the walls. Brass water pipes are used throughout the building as they are more durable than other pipes and do not have the same tendency to clog. Each floor is wired for vacuum cleaners.

Ascending to the third floor (and the ascent is made by easy flights of stairs) the visitor's attention is first attracted by a ladies' parlor, 24x33 feet, which will have its attractiveness enhanced by a large open fireplace. At this end of the building are also to be found the examination room, typewriter room, parlor and regalia rooms, the ladies' hall, 36x39, toilet and coat rooms.

The lodge room, 41x55 feet, occupies the western side of the third floor and will be a source of pride to every member of the Masonic fraternity. It will have an elaborate arrangement of colored lights. Railed seats will be ranged along the sides of the hall. Metal lighting will be used for the ceiling and cornices. Warmth will be furnished by a system of indirect heating. In connection with the large room will be preparation and robing rooms.

On the fourth floor will be an organ loft and balcony overlooking the southern end of the temple. The eastern end of the fourth floor is to be fitted up as an armory and smoking room and will be equipped with steel lockers. Through a dormer window some 20 feet in width, may be obtained a magnificent view of the harbor and bay. A skylight helps to illuminate the lodge room below.

The system of ventilation is as nearly perfect as modern construction science can make it. Every room and hall connects with it and the air is sucked out by an electric fan in the roof.

Immense steel girders are used in the construction of the temple and all of the floors are supported by steel construction.

The general contractor of this important construction project is a Rockland boy, Everett H. Spear, among whose more important contracts may be mentioned the Thorndike & Hix block on School street. Mr. Spear sublets the plumbing and gasfitting contracts to the Rockland Hardware Co., which also has a separate contract for furnishing the heating apparatus. The Rockland, Thomaston & Camden Street Railway Co. does the electric wiring.

The entire tenets of the building have been laid out in a separate contract of renewal. Woolworth is to pay an annual rental of $1200 for the double store, H. H. Crie & Co. $800 for the single store, the Rockland-Rockport Lime Co. $750 for the offices, the above figures not including heat. The estimated annual income of $2500 per year. The fixed charges are as follows: Interest $35,000 bonds, $1400; insurance rate, $200; taxes (only business property) $250; total, $1550. This gives a net income, (figuring nothing from that part of the building occupied for Masonic purposes) of $1300. Figuring the rentals, which will be paid to the owners of the building, the margin of security to the bondholders will be $3000 annually.

dear old friend Holmes puts it—

"Your name may haunt a tiled trail
Proud as a cockle's rainbow trail,
As Tim O'Shaughnessy's
Today, old friend, remember still
That I am here and you are still."

That's the spirit with which I approach the old home. We are glad if the boys and girls have succeeded in life, we rejoice in their prosperity, but not let that alter the fact that you are not a whit better than those who have not made as much of a success as you have; for the time will come, and the wisest know's not how soon—

"When the rich and the poor, the low and the high Shall moulder to dust, and together shall lie."
Life is short and we meet together infrequently, and in its briefness only at Salem. The other cases in this country were exceptional.

"It may be that the persecutions of their ancestors in their own country, the privations suffered during the early years of residence here may have had a gloomy and solemn effect that was transmitted to their children. It was the triumph of age of superstition, New England at that time was a most congenial theatre upon which to display its power. Wild, dark, unexplored forests covered the hills and hung over

One day when we were down town we went into his office and my friend says to me, "I have a favor to ask. I want to chat about old school-days, putting teachers out of school, 'Put-outs,' he called them, and finally the talk drifted around to the boys coming back to the old place, and his is about what he said:

"I like to see the fellows come back to the old home—I am mighty glad to know that they have made a success of life; that they have made money, and are getting along in their chosen professions; but I don't want to hear them brag about it here. I want them to forget it and talk about what we used to do when we were boys together."

"No matter; while our home is here
No sounding name is half so dear.
When fades at length our lightning day
Who cares what pompous tomesmen say?
Read on the hearts that love us still,
His jests, Joe. His jests still."

Boze.

HEARD WITCHCRAFT TALES

Methodist Brotherhood Begins Its Season's Meetings Under Excellent Auspices.—Hon. J. E. Moore the Speaker.

The Methodist Brotherhood held its first meeting of the season last night with a good-sized attendance. Supper was served under the direction of A. W. Gregory, Frank Safstrom, Roscoe Staples, Harold C. Simmons and F. A. Hahn. Riley P. Strout was admitted to membership. The following housekeepers were appointed for the next meeting: Robert Ludwig, R. F. Strout, Ralph G. Stone, Frank Gardner and John Brazier.

The speaker at last night's meeting was Hon. Joseph E. Moore of Thomaston, who delivered an intensely interesting lecture on "Witchcraft."

"In the history of every nation," said Mr. Moore, "I suppose there are dark pages, that succeeding times wish could be blotted out. In the history of this country there is one that it would seem should be blotted out with a broad black border; the records of which were so far destroyed in the attempt to efface it that much of the story has never been written. This destruction, strange to relate, was accomplished by the very participants in the sad event. For unprovoked cruelty and heartless persecution nothing ever exceeded the witchcraft craze that dominated Salem in 1692, (unless it was similar offenses committed in England), and it had for its participants some of the most devout, intelligent and otherwise upright men who lived in the early days of New England, whose people were noted for their horror of vice and strictness in religious forms, even to intolerance. And still the awful persecutions of that time were not without precedent. The wonder is that any human being, even the savages, could perpetrate or even uphold such cruelty. In the history of the world, there is no record of such a thing. The delusion in Salem ran from March 1692 to May 1693, but there were not many convolutions after October 1692. Between March and October of that year it was simply a rage.

FIRE AT MIRROR LAKE

One of the Cleveland cottages at Mirror Lake, owned by Mrs. Jennie Mitchell of Salem, Mass., was destroyed by fire at 10 o'clock Sunday night. Her brother, Fred Cleveland, occupied the old homestead nearby, and having retired early knew nothing about the fire until notified by his brother William who had been muskrat hunting. Cottage and contents were a total loss. They were partly insured. The cottage had been occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Morse of Rockland. It had been Fred Cleveland's intention to build a new chimney for the cottage, and work was to have begun yesterday.

The Cooks who have used the Single Damper of the

Crawford

Ranges

will never go back to the troublesome
two-damper range

The cost of the food spoiled by mistakes in regulating the ordinary two-damper ranges amounts to a large sum.

The Single Damper of the Crawford affords absolute fire and oven control by one motion—slide the knob to "kindle," "bake" or "check," the range does the rest.

The Oven of the Crawford has cup-joint heat flues which heat everywhere alike and make it the quickest and surest of bakers.

The Two Hods (patented) in the base—one for ashes instead of the old clumsy ash pan—one for coal, is a great trouble-saving feature.

Gas Ovens and Broilers above or at end of range, if desired.

Ballard's Golden Oil

A TONIC FOR THROAT AND LUNGS
Recommended by the best informed doctors. Good for young or old people, 25 and 50 cent bottles at all dealers.

The Crust.
It was at an afternoon tea, with the usual musical accompaniment. The man's man had been literally dragged there, an unwilling victim, by a zealous friend who liked afternoon teas with a musical accompaniment. Need less to say, the zealous friend was a ladies' man.
The man's man was very unhappy. He had sulked and had positively refused to be introduced to the bevy of charming girls presiding at the tea tables, much to the chagrin of the ladies' man, who naturally couldn't understand the attitude of the man's man. It was inexorable, from his point of view, but a ray of hope glimmered in his breast when the man's man rushed up to him, exclaiming: "I say, old fellow, introduce me to the fat lady sitting over in the corner, will you?"
The eyes of the ladies' man glinted. "With the greatest of pleasure," he cried. "Have you got a crush on her?"
"No," replied the man's man savagely. "I should say it was quite the other way. She's sitting on my hat!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

He Saw More Lights.
In one of the hotels recently some new electric lights were put in use in a decorative way. A young man who lives on the hill happened in during the evening and noticed the lights.
"They're very nice," he said to the head waiter, "but why didn't you put up more?"
The head waiter, knowing the young man's fondness for articles enumerated on the wine list, replied, "I think you'll see more of them before you leave, Mr. So-and-so."
The young man remained in the cafe a couple of hours and imbibed rather freely of liquid refreshments. When he got ready to leave he sought the head waiter.
"Much obliged to you," he said. "Did you put the extra ones in for me?"
"Certainly," replied the head waiter bowing.
The young man left the hotel feeling greatly honored.—Denver Post.

"It Beats All"
This is quoted from a letter of M. Stockwell, Hannibal, Mo. "I recently used Foley's Honey and Tar for the first time. To say I am pleased does not half express my feelings. It beats all the remedies I ever used. I contracted a bad cold and was threatened with pneumonia. The first doses gave great relief and one bottle completely cured me." Contains no opiates. F. H. Call, Rockland; H. Newman, Warren Pharmacy.

You are not experimenting on yourself when you take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a cold as that preparation has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of colds, and can always be depended upon. It is equally valuable for adults and children and may be given to young children with implicit confidence as it contains no harmful drug. Sold by Norcross Drug Stores, and W. H. Kittredge, Druggist.

The best plaster. A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Liniment and bound on over the affected parts is superior to a plaster and costs only one tenth as much. For sale by Norcross Drug Stores, and W. H. Kittredge, Druggist.

Two Tablets and Stomach Misery Gone
C. H. Pendleton and W. H. Kittredge sell and guarantee the best prescription the world has ever known for disturbed and upset stomach, gas, belching, heaviness, heartburn, acid stomach and biliousness. It is called MI-O-NA, remember the name, and it banishes distress from over eating or fermentation of food in five minutes.

It is guaranteed by C. H. Pendleton and W. H. Kittredge to cure indigestion, sick headache, nervousness and dizziness, or money back. No matter how long you have suffered you will find a certain cure in MI-O-NA stomach tablets. About six weeks ago I purchased a box of MI-O-NA tablets for an aggravated form of stomach trouble. I had been troubled for four or five years, had tried different physicians and a great many patent remedies, but of no use, until I used MI-O-NA. They entirely relieved me from pain, and I can now eat most any kind of food and relish it.—A. J. Fish, West Carthage, N. Y.

MI-O-NA stomach tablets are only 50 cents a large box at C. H. Pendleton's and W. H. Kittredge's drug stores and druggists everywhere. Get a trial treatment free, by writing Booth's MI-O-NA, Buffalo, N. Y.

CLEVER WOMEN
Always Keep Their Hair Fascinating and Free from Dandruff.

Almost everybody in Rockland knows that there is no preparation for the hair that can compare with Parisian Sage. It cures dandruff, stops falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks, or money back. It puts radiance and lustre into that dull, lifeless hair that many women possess, and does it in a few days.

On March 25, 1910, Lulu D. Pix, of Etapline, Va., wrote: "Parisian Sage is a wonderful hair restorer; it stopped my hair from falling out and stopped my scalp from itching; also cured the dandruff." Parisian Sage is sold by W. H. Kittredge, Rockland.

A giant puff ball is attracting attention in Hallowell. It measures 15 inches in diameter and 3 1/2 feet in circumference. It came from the farm of J. K. Merrill in Manchester.

THIN FOLKS MADE FAT
Good, healthy flesh can only be gained by the use of the proper food, together with natural action of the organs of assimilation. Nine people out of ten in order to weigh as much as they ought and be perfectly healthy, should use Samose, the great flesh-forming food and health restorer. Weigh yourself before commencing to use these little tablets and see how your weight increases from week to week. Samose does not contain a particle of starch or pepper, and is a perfectly safe preparation, such as is usually recommended to make people fat, and which does not build up good healthy tissues. Samose has valuable flesh-forming properties, tones up and strengthens the weak system, helps the food that is eaten to be assimilated in a natural manner, and absolutely restores health to all the organs. If you are not perfectly satisfied with the results from Samose, C. H. Pendleton will return your money without any quibbling.

Not a Bouncer.
"Mother," said a six-year-old hopeful, "isn't it funny that everybody calls little brother a bouncer baby?" "Why do you think it's funny, Willie?" remarked his mother. "Because when I dropped him on the floor this morning he didn't bounce a bit. He only hollered."

A Mean Suggestion.
Pierrot—"The only way for a man to understand women is to get married. Pierrette—And study the ways of his wife, eh? Pierrot—"No. Listen to what she tells him about the other women."

The Sponders.
"How are you getting along, Jones, since you got married? Saving any money?" "Yes, but for heaven's sake don't tell my wife"—Judge's Library.

Descriptive.
"Is he broke?" "Broke? Why, his assets rattle around in his liabilities like a pea in a coal bucket."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

WEST ROCKPORT

The sad intelligence was received on Saturday last of the sudden death of Robert F. Cushing in Denver, Colo. He was the son of Mrs. G. A. Miller of West Rockport. NORTH HAVEN GRANGE FAIR

It Was a Grand Success Financially and In Every Other Way.

The North Haven Grange held its first fair, Oct. 11, 12, 13, and 14, at Union Hall. The day was perfect and the attendance beyond the expectations of the most sanguine granger.

There was a good exhibit of live stock, poultry, cats and dogs.

J. B. Crockett had a fine exhibit of modern up-to-date farm machinery of all kinds, also an ancient wooden plow that once did its poor best to cultivate North Haven soil.

Inside the hall the first attraction was the "Larkin" booth, in charge of Mrs. Bessie Whitmore and Miss Matilda Crockett.

The ice cream counter under Miss Carrie Lermont's care was so well patronized that the ice cream gave out long before everyone had had enough.

The stage was covered and surrounded by the great crowd. The day was eye openers to many who declared their surprise that such products were raised in North Haven.

The potato exhibit was especially fine—the potatoes were large in every case and good shape and appearance.

The prize pumpkin weighed over 50 lbs. while John Beverage had a half dozen beauties that weighed but a few pounds less. Strings of fine long ears of Canada Flint corn were featured around the windows and doors and went to prove that our farmers are not wholly dependent upon the West for their food and fruit. The July her as green as though it were July instead of October was exhibited by George Alexander, while squashes, turnips, beets, parsnips, cabbages and fruit all showed up to make a picture well worth looking at. Two exhibits of fruit from apple trees that had been grafted deserve special mention. One by Frank Beverage, a good sized early eating apple of a most unusual and peculiar shape of red, which he has christened the "Beverage" apple. The other was by S. H. Witherspoon, a large, smooth handsome cooking apple dark green in color. The C. H. Young, who showed canned apples and corn, prettily arranged. This canning factory has been in operation but two seasons but has done a good business and is proving a great convenience for our farmers.

The only disappointing feature about the vegetable exhibit was that none of the boys saw fit to compete for the special premiums offered to them.

Robert Brown and Lloyd Crockett, the fellows about 7 years old were the only boys who had exhibits of vegetables.

The fancy work booth was in charge of Mrs. E. L. Dyer and Mrs. J. B. Crockett. Here besides the aprons and handkerchiefs which were contributed by the members were two quilts made by the Grange circle during the summer as a home ornament.

A number of pieces of embroidery were shown by different people. Also a drawn work doily by Mrs. Nettie Crockett. C. S. Staples sent an attractive display of dry goods, souvenir postals and small wares from his store which was in charge of Mrs. W. L. Ames.

A surprising thing was that in view of the special premiums offered in several classes for girls and no girls there were no entries. The Grange can only conclude that there are no girls in town under 20 who can cook.

The baby show at 2:30 attracted the largest crowd that was present during the fair. The decision was made by popular vote and Winona, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Whitmore, received the most votes and was given the prize. The vote was very light many people saying that the babies were all so pretty they found it impossible to decide which one to vote for.

At the conclusion of the baby show the cows were tended for butter fat with a Babcock Milk tester. Will Sampson's cow showed the best test but owing to the instability of the table and the consequent breaking of one of the bottles in the center this contest was not entirely satisfactory.

Dinner was served at noon by the brother Grangers under the direction of Herman Crockett. Roast lamb, vegetables, pumpkin and other varieties of pie, bread and butter and coffee, made up the menu and the dinner was a great success. As the brothers in North Haven Grange out number the sisters about 10 to 1 and as many of them are quite proficient in the culinary art they often take a hand on occasions like this, and never was their assistance needed or appreciated more.

The supper at 6 o'clock was under the direction of Mrs. Alice Sampson, who served baked beans, cold meat, pies, cakes, bread and butter etc. to a good sized crowd.

At 8 o'clock the crowd gathered in the lower hall for the final contest. The contest was a battle between the two sides, the one by grange talent which was well received. It was planned to present a sunflower drill by 16 young men but owing to lack of room on the stage and the crowded condition of the hall this had to be given up.

The fish pond under the direction of Eugene Crockett and Everett Beverage was decidedly popular.

The grange wishes to extend its thanks to those who so generously contributed articles for the fair, especially to Mrs. Charles Parsons, Mrs. Mary Mills and to the John Bird Co. of Rockland, as well as to those who so kindly loaned articles for the exhibit.

It was only through the "cooperation" (a familiar term in grange work) of those both inside and outside the grange that the fair was made possible, but by means of that it became a success, comparing very favorably, so our out of town visitors assured us, with grange fairs anywhere in Knox county.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Spear are spending the week in Boston.

Mrs. Mary Redon of Bath is visiting at the home of Warren Gardner.

Mrs. Redon is now nearly 80 years of age, but certainly is one of our smart ladies.

She makes her annual visit to Rockland friends each autumn, traveling alone and doing many little deeds of kindness each day for the benefit and comfort of those around her.

Many mornings she will be found making her patchwork, before her breakfast is ready. Sunday forenoon as Mrs. Warren Gardner, and Mrs. Charles Gardner, with Miss Brown at the piano, were singing songs that were familiar to Mrs. Redon, she lightly stepped to the piano and sang with the others, apparently enjoying the music in her girlhood days.

Mrs. Redon is of a very sunny disposition and finds a welcome wherever she goes.

The Shakespeare Society held a very delightful meeting last evening with Mrs. R. W. Bickford. There was a large attendance. The society commenced the reading of "Merchant of Venice." Two very interesting papers were read—"The Attitude of Elizabethan England toward the Jew" by Mrs. Aldana Spear; and "A Study in Raw Materials" by Mrs. Laura Judd.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Ray Eaton, Camden street.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Teel are here from Rockland.

Mrs. Albert M. Ripley is visiting friends in Rockland and vicinity for a short time.

Miss Henrietta H. Ames is home from a short visit to Rockland and vicinity.

Miss Flora Young is at her home.

Cranberries are abundant here this season and are found in places where none grew before. We think Orin Burgess holds the record for the greatest number of quarts picked in one day.

Mrs. Hattie Ames and Mrs. George Ames spent a few days in Rockland recently.

The poor old Matinicus scribe finds it more difficult to pencil items in this vicinity than when she was "doing the same" here fifteen years ago, and wonder why some of the talent that is budding out here does not send items to the Courier-Gazette so that the friends away may know how they are progressing.

Four workmen arrived on the steamer last week, en route for Matinicus Rock light station.

We made a call on Thomas Hall at his finely appointed oil clothes establishment recently. He has a fine assortment of oil suits, petticoats, etc., and lobster heads, bows, etc. One cannot but be impressed with the neatness and order of the whole place where so much work is done. In the next little office where Mr. Hall receives his customers or friends much convenience and neatness was manifested, and should you doubt for one second his literary taste, just get a peek at his fine library.

Four young men from Brockton, Mass., are occupying the Gregory cottage for a few days.

MATINICUS

We are having a "Job lot" of Blow days.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Miller and Elmer Ames are spending a few weeks at "Sea View" cottage.

Sea ducks and coots are beginning to be quite plenty around the ledges and the boom of the runs are heard.

Mr. and Mrs. Chaney Hall (nee Celeste Tolman) arrived Thursday and are guests at Capt. Chas. Tolman's.

W. E. Schwartz, contractor of Camden, was in town recently to view the house under construction here for George Ames. We understand it is to be equipped with all the modern conveniences. It will be a fine addition to Matinicus' already fine lot of well kept houses.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Teel are here from Rockland.

MAINE OPTOMETRISTS MET

Clarence A. Pendleton of Rockland Admitted to Membership.—Infractions of Law to be Investigated.

The Maine Optometrists' Society held a very successful meeting at Waterville recently. Among those present was Orel E. Davies of Rockland. An important business session was held, at which the application of Clarence A. Pendleton of Rockland was approved, and he was elected a member.

The feature of the evening was a lecture by Dr. Albert F. Webb of Boston, whose subject was, "Eye Defects and Their Relation to Other Afflictions of the Body." The doctor explained the various bodily diseases that could be detected in and about the eye, and explained their inter-relationship with other diseases. While the optometrists do not pretend to treat diseases of the eye, they being specialists in the examination of the eyes for glasses, they nevertheless are expected to detect disease when present, for the safety of the patient. The members present derived a great deal of benefit from the lecture.

The executive committee was directed to solicit new members for the society and also to investigate several cases of alleged infractions of the optometrists' law. The next meeting of the society will be held in Portland, January 11, 1911, and will be an all-day session.

THOMASTON'S "SHOOTING UP"

Chief Rokes Thought Shots Were Meant for Him, but Joseph Henry Peters Had Different Explanation.

Thomaston had its share of excitement Saturday when the report was circulated that Joseph Henry Peters and brother Joseph had been "shooting up" the town.

The two men are well known members of the negro settlement at South Warren. They had attended a negro funeral Saturday afternoon, and before departing for home undertook to drown their grief with a liquid that is supposed to allay trouble but which generally starts it. As a result, they became more or less boisterous along the street.

Chief of Police John Rokes moved them along towards home. As they turned down Green street three shots were fired and the negroes drove rapidly away.

Joseph Henry Peters was arrested at South Warren Sunday by Chief Rokes and Deputy Sheriff Bucklin. The other Peters was arrested on the wharf in Thomaston Sunday night.

The men were arraigned before Judge Linscott yesterday afternoon. The state was unable to produce any direct evidence that the shots had been directed at or near Chief Rokes, in fact one witness testified that the flash was in the direction of the ground. Joseph Henry Peters caused considerable amusement by asserting that he fired the shots for the purpose of spurring his horse into a run. Both men were discharged on the warrant charging assault and battery, but each was fined $10 and costs for drunkenness. The prisoners were eloquently represented by Judge Campbell.

The Portland water district has just contracted for 14 miles of pipe, 21,600 tons in all, at $22.40 a ton delivered at Westbrook, which is an exceedingly low figure.

G. R. Hunnewell of Auburn has raised this season an enormous potato, which weighs two pounds, 7 1/2 ounces and has not the fault of many potatoes that attain prodigious size, hollowness of heart. The potato measures 3 1/2 inches around its greatest circumference and is clean and clear. It has few little knobs and peculiarly enough but few eyes.

Calais is soon to have a Catholic hospital. Bishop Walsh on the occasion of his recent visit to that city closed negotiations for the purchase of the Clark residence on Church street and the same will be used for a hospital, patterned after the famous Carney hospital of Boston. The hospital will be fitted up as soon as the necessary alterations in the structure are made.

A newcomer to the town of Lowell in Penobscot county is making a profitable venture out of the catching of eels. He has built a sluiceway on Passadumkeag stream and as the eels try to get through he has them trapped. A few days ago he shipped 10 barrels of the eels to the city markets. The price received by him is understood to be $10 per barrel.

One of the things in the recent exhibit of Paris Grange at the Oxford county fair, which was a little out of the ordinary was a native pineapple. The pineapple was raised in the house of B. F. Richards by his sister Mattie, and it took a number of years to get the plant in condition to produce. The fruit was about the size of a billiard ball and nearly round. It was found when cut, to be softer of flesh and sweeter than the pineapples of commerce.

The Preble Street station of the Boston & Maine Railroad at Portland is now a thing of the past so far as being a passenger station is concerned. The old depot passed into history Sunday evening with the pulling out of the regular 615 passenger train. The passenger business formerly transacted at the Preble Street station is now handled at Union station and the freight formerly coming to Preble street is sent to the Portland terminal division.

Hon. James Phinney Baxter, four times mayor of Portland and a recognized authority on municipal government, to which subject he has devoted much study, believes that the city of Portland should adopt the Des Moines plan of municipal government with such modifications as may be necessary to adapt it to conditions. He says that if all the suggestions which have been made to him relative to a change in the form of the city of Des Moines plan appeals to him as the model system.

The largest real estate transfer in Bar Harbor's history was completed last week when the interest of Ferdinand Rodick, in the Rodick Realty Co., passed to L. B. Deasy, a prominent Bar Harbor attorney, and John A. Peters of Ellsworth. The Rodick family in the older days owned the greater part of Bar Harbor. Some years ago a corporation was formed to take over their holdings. The transfer includes the land on which a large part of the business section of the town is located including nearly all the western side of Main street to the shore.

The biggest rat story of the year to date comes from Hiram. Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Lowell hearing some disturbance in an open room investigated and discovered a rat in a barrel of traced corn. Bringing their large coon cat they witnessed a lively fight, the result of which at the time was uncertain, but when afterwards was found to show four rats as victims of the cat's prowess. The barrel was covered and removed. The kitchen where another cat was added to the forces and finally when the battle was over between the cats and Mr. and Mrs. Lowell 14 rats lay dead upon the kitchen floor.

Two boys were born in Biddeford recently. Nothing unusual you say. But wait a bit. The fathers of the children are brothers, the mothers are sisters. The boys were born on the same day and on the same street, and the children were brought to this world by the same doctor. They were also baptised in the same church on the same day. Joseph Naud is the father of Joseph Henri Naud, and the mother, before her marriage was Arsenia Richards. Hector Naud is the father of Joseph Roland, and the mother of this child is Ange Richards, a sister of the mother of Joseph Henri Naud.

One of the biggest crops of potatoes to be harvested by any farmer in Caribou, acreage considered, is that of Sidney A. Smiley, who lives on the old Washburn road, says the Caribou correspondent of the Bangor News. He has 30 acres planted this year and expects to cellar at least 4500 barrels. He harvested 2000 bushels from the first 11 acres dug. Mr. Smiley is one of those farmers who always has a big crop. Two years ago, when so many potatoes in that section were frozen in the ground, he was lucky enough to secure his entire crop without any disastrous results from the frost.

MORNING AT APPOMATTOX

Paper Read by Gen. J. P. Cilley Before Loyal Legion.—Some Interesting Incidents of Civil War's Close, Not Generally Known.

(Part One.)

George S. Barry, Bowdoin 1888, voices in appropriate stanzas the reason why an attempt is made to picture the morning at Appomattox:

Somewhere in the expanse of heaven
Is photographed the scene of every fight,
The flash of guns, the cannon's smoke—
Is placed and held forever.

The memory of each bloody field
Is held till death by all who fought;
To all the rest a name, a name,
We see no landscape, listen to no sound;
We cannot see the charge, the rout,
And comrades falling one by one.

But slowly as the days go by
Those visions fade, first here, now there,
As death goes stalking round,
And takes the picture from each mind;
Until at last, when all is past,
And heaven alone remains,
The pictures of those awful days.

The promise of that final Sabbath morning was felt when Sheridan started with these orders from Grant: "Move your cavalry at as early hour as you can, and without being confined to any particular road or roads. Get out toward Dinwiddie Court House and the enemy's right and rear." If the enemy should come out of his entrenched works, Sheridan was to "go in," assured that he would be properly supported. If the enemy did not come out, Sheridan was to cry havoc along the Southside and Danville Railroads.

Before thus moving out, it may be appropriate to trot before your attention the regiment whose praises I, from loyal motives, would sing—a regiment distinctive in this that it bears the names of many battles and lost men and officers than other cavalry regiments. It was distinctive, also, in this, that it carried the single-rank drill into the smoke of every battle where its guidons were unfurled. On parade, in brigade or division formations, her line was shortened into two ranks, but in battle her war-front was twice that of other cavalry regiments of like size. This regiment of five hundred superbly mounted men of Maine started out toward Dinwiddie Court House on the enemy's right and rear, March 31, 1865.

The spring season of three years anterior had seen me knocked from the saddle by cannon shot, and a full year knocked out of military service. Pardon me. I cannot keep back the thrill of that opening day of the final campaign. The men of my command, armed like an arsenal with sabre, pistol and repeating rifle, were mounted on horses and loved by the men who rode them. Ere the close of that day, this body of cavalry lost more men, killed and wounded, than in any other of its thirty-six actual battles. Our reward was the words of General Sheridan's official report, "Where General Smith's Brigade so gallantly repulsed the enemy." General Smith's Brigade was falling back in visible disorder when the charge of the dismounted men of the regiment changed the entire complexion of the field.

Evidently Lee anticipated the move. Sheridan was ordered to perform, and with great wisdom planned and executed a counter blow to protect his right and rear against the cavalry leader fresh from the Shenandoah; for when Sheridan advanced from Dinwiddie Court House, and while Custer's Division was ensnared in escorting the wagon and ammunition trains over muddy March roads, Lee threw upon Sheridan his entire cavalry force assisted by Pickett's veteran troops.

This desperate and final effort of the Confederate army was never duplicated, except that planned by Lee before midnight on April 8; and that plan was interrupted by the approach within half a mile of Appomattox Court House at 1 a. m., April 9. We must give you a sharp gallop before we reach that date. We will linger a little longer at Dinwiddie, whose name suggests the summit of battle. Colonel Newhall, of General Sheridan's staff, whose perfect word-picture of the final campaign is right worthy of admiration, wrote me a letter from London, a short time before he died, saying: "Of the many hard fights in which the 1st Maine took part, I will mention only one place, which I think I shall always remember, the battle of Dinwiddie Court House, where you behaved so splendidly. All that I wrote of your command in that night I was eye witness of."

A few personal events of that day may be appropriate. The first, a third wound in an unrepeatable part of my anatomy, which, from its locality, caused me to repeat some of Sheridan's oaths. Another, where I had rebuked sharply a man going to the rear with a carbine. I found he was a bugler belonging to another regiment. He had gone armed in the night for the fun of it and now was carrying orders from his colonel; afterwards in the final attack in late afternoon when all to our right had been forced back and the triumphant rebels were returning the battle given them earlier in the day, my hat as I was rushing to rally my old Company B, went off my head in a quick, unexplained manner, and was afterwards brought to me by this bugler with the remark, "Here colonel, is your carbine hat, which proves I was at the front after you left." I will relate another, the mere relation of which does injustice to the spirit which prompted the act but I am urged to tell it as it opens the field to tell of a soldier who did a timely act at the peril of captivity. We had been informed that all beyond our right had been driven back, and that we were to use our discretion in reaching the court house. So the fight was simply a dull, heavy rear-guard, fighting by dismounted men whose duty was to fall back as slowly as possible. To act as rear-guard with men mounted and with ample room to choose your delaying spots is a fascinating game, but a dismounted rear-guard, men whose legs by disease are disqualified from walking and entirely unfit for any fast-gait, is a depressing proposition. My orderly, in his anxiety to save horse flesh, had left me without a mount when the shower of bullets crashed through the trees.

It was a typical Virginia woods, with little underbrush; the clear field over which we had charge in the morning was at our left, but the enemy kept from this and dodging from tree to tree, advanced and our line fell back. It was exhausting work. Gilbert Harris, of Company D, now a lawyer of the Boston Bar, then a mounted orderly for General Smith, seeing my condition, voluntarily rode to me and dismounting, tendered me his horse. Now I could go from right to left without painful delay. A short time later I saw four men, carrying a wounded man, come into sight near the road to our left, and soon one of them dropped as if fatally shot. I rode toward them with the indefinite purpose of preventing further loss. I found them to be Sergeant Jefferson L. Coburn, his brother, Sergeant H. S. Coburn, Corporal C. A. North, and O. E. Lufkin (fatally shot), all of Company A, bearing the body of Lieutenant Conins, fatally wounded, when J. L. Coburn, afterwards promoted to lieutenant, remarked that "if we had a horse we could get Conins from the field." I, of course, dismounted and the wounded lieutenant was placed on the horse and thus more rapidly removed from the place. This brought me between the two lines, if lines they could be called, and not feeling in condition to run I used my pistol as I fell back, when I saw one of my men rushing toward me. In the history of the regiment, I have put in print the desire to know the name of this soldier. It was Frederick M. Giles, of Company G, now a resident of Boothbay, who had assisted James Burns, a wounded man from that company, from the field, and taken his remaining cartridges and returned to the front. He asked him how many cartridges he had. He replied forty or more. I directed him to take shelter in rear of a clump of bushes, and to hold the rebels in check as well as he could. He came to me the next morning and said: "I carried out your orders, Colonel; but when my ammunition was out the rebels were behind me on either side, and I was obliged to lie where I was till night, and did not find my regiment till after midnight."

N. W. EMERSON, M. D., Boston, Consulting Surgeon

Enlarged and newly fitted for the reception of any class of cases except those of an infectious or contagious character.

Owing to the increased accommodations the prices have been adjusted so that the privileges of a private hospital can be secured at the same rates charged in the general hospitals.

Ward beds, $10.50 to $15.00 per week.
Rooms with two beds, $15.00 per week.
Private rooms, $25.00 per week.
Special Nurses at the regular rates.

All the prices quoted above include board and general nursing. Many desire the personal care that can be secured only in a private hospital, but are unable to secure it on account of the high rates charged.

Paint has again advanced but not in such a great proportion as has lumber, the material it protects; so when the cost of paint and lumber is compared, paint is cheaper than it ever was. The increased cost of materials has flooded the market with cheap paints, but we prefer staying with "Quality."
